IS YOUR QUOTE FAIR?

A quote between $396 and $721 is inside the band where half of all Ford Edge brake pad and rotor replacements landed. Below it is not automatically a bargain (economy pads and rotors, hardware reused); above it is not automatically gouging (premium or coated rotors, both axles done together, seized hardware or a sticking caliper found on the way) — but both ends deserve a question.

WHAT MOVES THE PRICE

- One axle or both — the typical job is one axle; doing both roughly doubles it.
- Part grade — coated rotors and ceramic pads cost more and last longer.
- Vehicle size — truck and SUV rotors are bigger and pricier than compact-car parts.
- Caliper condition — a sticking caliper found during the job adds a part and time.

ABOUT THIS DATA · HOW TO USE THIS REPORT

Vehicle Ford Edge, model years 2007–2023
Data confidence High — large sample, stable ranges
Records through July 2026, refreshed continuously
Source paid invoices from independent US repair shops

Bring it to the shop. Ask for the written estimate split into parts, labor hours and rate, and fees — then compare each line. A shop that explains a number above the range is doing its job; one that won't is telling you something too.

NOT A QUOTE This report describes what other owners paid for the same repair. Your year, engine, region and the parts chosen shift the number. FixDozer does not perform repairs and receives nothing from shops.
